LETTERS TO THE EDITOR, DEC. 3, 2011

Climate change

A bouquet to the U-T for publishing Marshall Saunders' very informative article about climate change ("Climate debate in search of solutions," Opinion, Nov. 25) and the front-page story Nov. 21 on the impacts of climate change in California.

A brick to the U-T for publishing the letter to the editor (Nov. 28) regarding CO2 and the fact that it is required for life. Of course CO2 is required for life. In biology, one finds that many things required in small quantities can be poisonous in large doses.

While I realize we all have the right to our opinion in this country, I look for a challenging and intellectually engaging debate when I read the letters to the editor. The U-T receives many letters and must make a choice about what to print. With letters like this, I'm wondering if I might soon find one emphatically stating the world is flat.
